

The Wild South

since 2018 works for local resilience and a just transition to a sustainable planet.

We collaborate with other environmental and social justice groups.

We act on our love and care for the Earth, through community connection, local events & activities.

—

Understanding the past

Recognising the present

Acting for the future

What do we do

- Support and collaborate with local groups
- Raise awareness & share ideas
- Restorative circles with The Work That Reconnects (to inspire hope & connection)
- Nature connection opportunities
- Connect people at local events

Local Events and Fundraisers

- Hands Across the Sand - Port Willunga Beach
- Documentary movie nights with guest speakers
- Climate feelings and restorative circles
- Clothes swap for Climate
- Clean Up Australia Day
- Community Gatherings
- Forest Bathing
- Reveg days

Groups we support & collaborate with

- Sustainable Communities SA
- SEED Indigenous Youth Climate Network
- Sellicks Woodlands & Wetlands Action Network-SWWAN
- The Wilderness Society
- Environmental Justice Australia
- Aboriginal Legal Service
- School Strike 4 Climate
- Climate for Change conversations
- Regenerating Australia & WWF-Australia
- Willunga Environment Centre
- Aldinga Arts Eco Village
- Aldinga Bay Residents Association
- Stalls at festivals and events

Waves of Peace community gathering

Clean Up Australia Day at Symonds Reserve

Movie night with guest speakers from SEED

Fundraising stalls at festivals and events

Advocating for climate action, revegetation for biodiversity, tree canopy coverage and other environmental issues

Restorative Circles with The Work That Reconnects and Regenerating Australia

Creative messaging

Hands Across The Sand Fight for the Bight

© Sandra Teague

